

The Scarlet Cord

Everything depends on one split-second decision. Rahab, a resourceful beauty, struggles to survive in the pagan culture of ancient Jericho. As years of harsh labor begin to lift her and her family from poverty, a foreign army threatens the well-fortified city. Rahab is forced to make an immediate decision. Will she put her faith in the fabled walls of Jericho or the powerful God of the Hebrews? Either choice may cost her life.

Some commentators think this scarlet cord represented her occupation. It was her red light in the window, and therefore would not arouse.
