

Abigail Carter decides transplanting herself in Wyoming after the death of her husband in the 9/11 bombings, is the answer to moving on without him. He was her life, her future, her husband, and a New York City firefighter. How can she even think about finding someone else? Chase Wilder is a local horse rancher outside of Laramie Wyoming. He knows what the snowy, treacherous roads are like in the winter all too well after losing his wife to an accident on the highway. When he's called to an accident near his house as a first responder, he can't help but pray for the woman hanging upside down by her seat belt. Inexplicably drawn to her, he can't shake the need to learn more about her. When two very different people find they need each other to survive the rough Wyoming winter, will the sizzle when they touch be enough to keep their future warm? This is a re-release of this title originally released in 2009. It has been re-edited, reformatted, brand new cover, and additional text**
